Senior Jessica Perry discovers a downfall of being 18. She had to work longer hours because she was an adult.

Injured, senior Ruth Stephens shows off her neck brace. Being an adult, she had to take responsibility.

SECONDARY DATA

- The price range for tattoos started at $50 and went as high as $2,000.
- Body piercing started at $30 dollars.
- The legal age to get a tattoo or piercing was 18.

After turning 18, senior Justin Brock signs his draft card. Signing up for the draft was a rite of passage for 18 year old males.

The Legal Age

18--the age when children legally become adults. For seniors, this signified new privileges that could be experienced. "Turning 18 meant POWER to me," stated senior Jessica Copeland. The range of new experiences were endless. "When I turned 18, I called the psychic hotline just because I could," remembered senior Amanda Erisman. Senior Erin Anderson commented, "When I turn 18, I'm getting a tattoo." Senior Sarah Meyers went for a more subdued experience. "I got my ears pierced for the second time," explained Myers. While seniors enjoyed the new things they could legally do after they turned 18, Senior John Lloyd summed up his feelings on the age in two words, "more freedom."

Sarah Ducker hugs a giant tree at Harding University during her six day stay at Girl's State.

Twelve students had the opportunity to attend a six-week summer program called Governor's School on the campus of Hendrix College. Senior Daiya Craig, said "It [Governor's School] was worth giving up six weeks of my summer and I would do it again."

Boys' and Girls' State Programs, which lasted only six days, focused on helping students understand the governmental process. Senior Ethan Carter commented "My most memorable experience at Boy's State happened when Governor Huckabee came to UCA and entertained us by doing impersonations." Although both summer programs were memorable, they did have their downsides. "One downside to Boys' State was that we woke up to reveille every morning at 5:30 A.M.," said senior Kyle Loker.

Sara Frounfelter decorates the main room by taping silver stars to a balloon tree.

With a celestial eruption, star balloon trees, and an iron gate, prom was "A Heavenly Night." "I think our prom was beautifully decorated and well-organized," stated senior Rebecca Cooper. Expenses for prom varied. Senior Daiya Craig explained her expenses, "My dress cost $125, the bootinier cost $8, dinner was $42, and pictures cost $50."

"I spent only $15 on my dress because my mom made it, $10 on my shoes, and dinner cost about $50," mentioned senior Megan Corbett. Senior Peter Hudson commented on his favorite part of prom, "My woman and being with my friends." Senior Megan Corbett thought having prom in the new gym was a good idea, "I liked that prom was in the gym. It felt so much like an actual prom. Having it in the gym was very traditional," Corbett stated. Most felt that prom was "A Heavenly Night." -- by Lindsey Smith

Senior Pride Shines On

Peter MacKercher scarfs down a hotdog during the class wars.

During the homecoming pep rally, seniors Clint Reckenwald, Amber Speaks, and Jake Shy show their school spirit while cheering for the home team.

From the signs hung at homecoming to the shirts reading "Senior Chicks," seniors displayed their excitement throughout the year. Underclassmen saw this new found pride as cockiness; however, seniors deemed it as pure seniority. "Seniors are better than juniors and sophomores in all aspects. We're better in basketball, smarter, and have more school spirit," claimed senior Johnny Liu.

Senior Lane Daracaq agreed, "We're mature. They [underclassmen] need to grow up." As the year progressed, seniors became more confident in their ranking. Seniors awaited graduation with high expectations. "We're getting ready to be in the real world, and they're still in the nursery," stated senior Megan Spore. Senior Danny Gentry concluded, "As seniors, we have a more profound sense of reality. All and all, we're just better." Senior pride was a one-year high, the seniors would graduate only to be replaced by a new generation.

SECONDARY DATA

In the class games, the senior accumulated 680 points first semester.

The seniors won the homecoming float competition.

The seniors captured first place in 8 of 17 class games before Christmas break.

A group of seniors represent their class in a tug-of-war match against the sophomores.

Future Plans

Drapes vs. Shirts

"Drapes? I hated wearing those things, you never know where they've been," explained senior Linden Oliver. Many students agreed with Oliver's opinion about the drapes. Senior Courtney Brummett commented, "I don't think the drapes allow everyone to show their individuality." Other students, however, felt differently. "I think the drapes make everyone look much nicer. They just look more professional," said senior Megan Corbett. Senior Jake Shy explained, "I think the drapes made all the guys look good, but I think the girls should get to choose what they want to wear. I think they would look fine in a Sunday dress." Most students agreed with senior Lindsey Smith's compromise. "I think that a simple white colored shirt would be more flattering and uniform for girls."
